WAR COUNCIL'S STIRRING APPEAL

The grim, grisly spectre of war stalks abroad in the land and like Moloch is enfolding in its destroying embrace the flower of the world. Its way is watered with the tears of suffering womanhood, its step marks time to the heart-sick walls of fragile childhood—desolation and ruin follow in its wake.

As an unflagging disciple of the cause of Humanity, our own beloved country has enrolled. This war is near to us in Fayette county, for many of our boys are "over there." They are making the Supreme Sacrifice that the sway of the arch-fiend of darkness shall forever be broken. ARE YOU MAKING THE SUPREME SACRIFICE?

This is as much your war, even though you are spared to your home, as the boy's who has been snatched away to stand and perhaps topple over the Brink of Awfulness. Are you doing your part? Have you placed your services, your hands and your all at the disposal of your country?

Have you enrolled in the Army of the Red Cross, that great agency of Mercy. Designed to staunch the wounds, allay the suffering, nurse back to health the sick and grievously wounded upon the field of battle.

This army of the Red Cross is asking you to enroll. It is your DUTY to respond. YOU HAVE NO ALTERNATIVE. Your refusal can mean but one of two things—POVERTY or DISLOYALTY TO YOUR COUNTRY.

The county has been organized thoroughly, that the appeal may be made to all. Fayette County must be enrolled. Every home must be stamped with the badge of honor. DO YOUR BIT.

10 KILLED IN PLANE RAID ON ENGLAND

From 16 to 20 'Planes, Divided Into Groups, Raid Britain.

One German Air Raider Brought Down.

Only Five Succeeded in Dropping Bombs on Metropolis.

(By Associated Press Cable)
London, December 19.—Ten persons were killed and 70 injured in London during last night's air raid. Outside of London five were injured. One German airplane was brought down and another is believed to have been destroyed.

From 16 to 20 raiders divided into groups endeavored to reach London but only five succeeded in dropping bombs on the city.

The raider destroyed was hit by fire from anti-aircraft guns and dropped into the sea off Kent.

Two of the crew of three were captured alive by an armed trawler.

"WHAT HAPPENED TO FRITZ?"

REMAINS OF A TAUPE,

No one looking up this photograph would need to ask:

"What happened to Fritz?"

The photograph is a complete answer. A French air fighter brought down this German recently. At the time a raid on Dunkerque was in progress. The force with which the Teutonic aeroplane struck the ground shattered it, so that now little of it is left for exhibition purposes but the engine. When it comes to destructive forces the force of gravity is about as dangerous as any of them.

MONSTER WHEAT CROP PROSPECTS FALL BELOW THE NORMAL FIGURES

Early Prospects for a Billion Bushels

Now Shrink to but Little More Than Half Billion.

Rye Prospects Are Better Than Usual.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, December 19.—Winter wheat this year planted on the largest acreage ever sown in the history of the country, showed on December 1st, the lowest condition on record. A forecast of a crop of only 540,000,000 bushels was made today by the Department of Agriculture. The final production, however, will be above or below that quantity according to conditions hereafter.

In a statement on the report today, the Department says:

"The acreage planted to winter wheat is estimated at 42,170,000 acres, an increase of four percent over the area of wheat planted a year ago. In the campaign to produce a billion bushels of wheat next year to help feed our allies, an acreage of 47,337,000 of winter wheat was advocated.

Failure to reach this amount was not due to the intention of the farmers, but to the adverse conditions, unfavorable weather, late harvest of other crops and shortage of farm help, preventing the putting out of the full acreage desired.

"The condition of the plant is low, being 79.3 per cent of normal which compares with a ten year average condition on the same date of 89.3 per cent. The lowest condition ever reported in previous years on the December 1st report was 81.4 per cent in 1895.

"The rye acreage shows a material increase of 36.6 per cent over last year, due largely to a more than doubling of the acreage in North Dakota. The estimated acreage of $6,119,000 forecasts a production of 85,000,000 bushels.

In 1917 the yield was about 60,000,000 and in 1916 about 49,000,000 bushels.

810 PERSONS IN FAYETTE MUST PAY THEIR INCOME TAX

Collector of Internal Revenue
Will be Stationed at the Court House During First Half of January—Who Must Pay Income Tax.

In a communication received today Collector of Internal Revenue, A. C. Gilligan announces that a Federal Income Tax Officer will be sent into this county on January 2 and will be here until January 15. He will have his office at the court house and will be there every day ready and willing to help persons subject to income tax make out their returns without any cost to them for his services.

How many income taxpayers will there be in Fayette county? If you can guess how many married persons living with wife or husband will have net incomes of $2000 or over and how many unmarried persons will have net incomes of $1000 or over this year, then you know. The Collector of Internal Revenue estimates that there will be 810 taxpayers in this county.

Returns of income for the year 1917 must be made on forms provided for that purpose before March 1, 1918. Because a good many people don't understand the law and won't know how to make out their returns, the Government is sending in this expert to do it for them. But it is the duty of the taxpayer to make himself known to the Government. If he doesn't make return as required before March 1st, he may have to pay a penalty ranging from $20 to $1000, pay a fine or go to jail. So if you don't want to take chances of going to jail, you had better call on the income tax man. If you are not sure about being subject to the tax, you better ask him and make sure. Whether you see the income tax man or not, you must make a return if you are subject to tax.

Of course, persons living in other counties may, if they want to come and see the income tax man, who will be at the court house during January 2nd to 15th.

The Collector suggests that everybody start figuring up now, his income and expenses, so as to be ready with the figures when the expert arrives. Expenses, however, don't mean family expenses, money used to pay off the principle of a debt, new machinery, building or anything like that. They mean what you spend in making your money—interest, taxes paid, hired help, amount paid for goods sold, seed, stock bought for feeding, rent, (except that paid for the house in which you live) etc. Income includes about every dollar you get.

ALL PLANS MADE FOR ELKS' ANNUAL CHRISTMAS CHARITY

The Washington Elks, who have long since won a most enviable reputation as dispensers of real Christmas charity where it will do the most good, now have virtually every detail of their plans complete for their usual extensive giving, virtually every member of the lodge responding liberally to make the charity a success.

The appearance of old Santa himself is expected when the big Christmas tree is ready for the host of worthy young friends of the Elks on Christmas morning.

And added feature of the jolly event this year will be the appearance of a corps of the community singers, who will render a number of appropriate songs for the occasion.

The school teachers of the city have rendered valuable assistance to the Elks in ascertaining where the good cheer of the Elks' Santa Claus is to be dispensed.

D. A. R. DELICACIES FOR SICK SOLDIERS

The Daughters of the American Revolution personally superintended the taking over to Chillicothe Wednesday morning of five and a half bushel baskets of jellies and canned delicacies to Camp Sherman for the soldiers use in the Hospital.

The assortment included 106 glasses of jelly alone, and there were many jars of preserves and grape juice, daintily put up.

The Daughters who were active in promoting the shipment of jellies announced that they felt much indebted to women outside of the organization who were generous contributors.

It had been supposed that every Daughter would gladly send in her quota for the sick and suffering soldiers in the hospital, but a number failed to respond with even a single glass of jelly and had it not been that women both in town and county telephoned their desire to contribute and followed the wish by sending their donations, the shipment would have

RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP DRIVE IS ON

Workers Literally "Hop to It" in Rolling Up Big Enrollment of Citizens Who Believe in Their Country and Will Aid in Caring for Stricken Humanity—Everyone Is Eligible.

The Red Cross membership campaign in Fayette county is now on in real earnest. It did not get fully under way until late Wednesday evening when supplies of Service Flags, tags and buttons and other material for the campaign were finally placed in the hands of the committeemen who could not reach the city before Wednesday.

A rousing meeting of the workers from the rural districts and surrounding towns in the county was held at the Probate Judge's office Wednesday afternoon, and was presided over by Chairman M. S. Daugherty, of the Fayette County War Work Council. J. G. Schaefer, of Chicago, one of the active members of the Red Cross was present and spoke briefly. He was followed by Hon. Frank C. Parrott and others, and the real facts of the war, briefly stated, were given to the workers, and the necessity of their aid brought out.

There was an enthusiastic response to the words of the speakers, including Chairman Daugherty, and the workers left for the respective districts feeling the responsibility placed upon them and determined to do their part in the great service to their country made possible through the Fayette County War Work Council of which they are members.

Supplies Were Short

The officers of the local Red Cross chapter have been greatly worried over failure of some of the supplies to arrive, and when Mr. Schaefer brought a limited amount of supplies Wednesday morning, there was only sufficient to supply the workers outside of the city, and this was done.

The Plain Truth

There is no lack of splendid patriotism in the United States. The American people are, perhaps, more intensely devoted to the priceless privileges of freedom and self-government than any people on earth.

But it is to apply that glorious patriotism to existing conditions, weld it into an aggressive militant force that is the great objective of the men who see clearly the need of the time and fear that there is a possibility that all of our tremendous power for right may not be exerted in time to prevent an awful cost in precious lives—the money cost is of secondary importance.

Daniel Willard president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company, on that subject, had this to say a few days ago:

Let every person about to embark upon any enterprise, great or small, ask this question: Will this help America win the war? If they will ask this question of themselves they will have no difficulty in ascertaining the right answer, for our people are enlightened and perceptive. And if they adopt the right answer, when they shall have ascertained it, they will have become good soldiers.

By way of illustrating what the right answer will be, in my opinion churches should not be built, unless the men behind the plans believe that America will be aided thereby in winning the war, and there are few instances in which the building of churches could not be deferred. Postoffices should not be built. Unnecessary private residences should not be built. Public improvements should be put off, unless it is clear that they will add to the efficiency of our nation in the war against Germany or are necessary in the interest of public health or safety.

What Mr. Willard said is worthy of the most thoughtful consideration of every patriotic American citizen.

In the first place it is a sound patriotic pronouncement. Add to that the knowledge that Mr. Willard is one of our great big self made American citizens. Rising from an humble place in life to his present position of power was only, accomplished by hard work—realization of needs and intense application of ability and energy. What made Daniel Willard's life a success is what he would have the nation, which he loves so dearly, do now.

We must realize the necessity—make winning the war our first endeavor. Everything else is secondary until that work is done.

This, as Mr. Willard points out, is a war between peoples and principles—not armies alone. This is our war, every one of us must be a soldier. Do we realize it? Mr. Willard does and he would have all the American people see conditions as he sees them.

Arouse, realize, concentrate and act.

This war can be won, must be won and will be won, but the longer the people fail to appreciate their part the greater the cost is certain to be.

The Red Cross Drive

The nation wide drive for membership to the Red Cross is on now in earnest. Every community in America is endeavoring to enroll as many of its patriotic citizens as it possibly can in the membership. Every community, every town, every city, every township, every county, every state and the grand old nation itself is striving to make the word, which the overwhelming success of the big drive will carry oversea—one of encouragement to our brave soldiers, one of mercy and pity and helpfulness to the afflicted and one of confident belief in and support of our cause to the enemies of freedom—just as emphatic as possible.

The membership in the Red Cross is the voice of America speaking, to friend and foe alike, in all the wilderness of world confusion, its the heart throb of the great nation, courageous and compassionate.

Every man, woman and child in all America everywhere should enroll in the cause. The close of the week's campaign should exhibit to the world the nation in its entirety a member of the Red Cross.

The cross and the stars should flutter in every window in every home, workshop, bank and business house in all this broad free land.

It is the work of no committee to solicit members. It's the duty of every red blooded patriot to seek out the enrolling office and enlist. Be with the boys at the front, be behind the boys at home.

That's where the Red Cross is every day, and every hour. If we are not with the boys we are against them. There is no middle ground in the fight for freedom and human impulse never permits the shirking of a mission of mercy.

Is the Red Cross emblem in your window? Is it one of those entitled to have the little silver star in the center?

It should be.

Poetry For Today

IT CAN'T BE ALWAYS SUMMER.
It can't be always summer
In a land of northern clime,
Nor can meadows green and fragrant
Beckon to us all the time;
The roses bloom in beauty
As they climb the cottage door
But it's only for a little
And their loveliness is o'er.

It can't be always summer.
But the memories that cling
And the beauty that refreshes
Which the true heart loves to sing,
Make eternally a season
Of pure sweetness and delight
And we know the cycle's swinging
To a summer just as bright.

It can't be always summer
In the joys that touch the soul,
Yet the memories that gladden
And the hope that keeps us whole!
For a smile in looking backward
To the pleasures we have had
And we sing to dream of deeper
Loveliness to make us glad.

ONE THING HE HADN'T PREPARED FOR

ARTHUR WOODS

ARTHUR WOODS.

Arthur Woods, Police Commissioner of New York City, and important parts of his remarkable police organization are to form the nucleus of a new branch of the United States army which will take over the task of guarding the waterfronts, munition works and other vital spots in cities throughout the country, unless well laid plans miscarry. Arthur Woods is slated to be the national head of the branch, which will be a part of the Army Intelligence Bureau.

"THE CRISIS"

Undoubtedly, the greatest novel ever written on the American Civil War is "The Crisis." It was first published in 1900—seventeen years ago—and since that time no less than thirty-five editions of the book have been issued in all parts of the world.

"The Crisis" was produced, in dramatic form, several years after its publication as a book by James K. Hackett in the Knickerbocker Theater in New York City. As a play, it was very successful. Mr. Hackett scoring a personal triumph as Stephen Brice and Isabelle Irving winning equal honors as Virginia Carvel. After Mr. Hackett had toured the country for several seasons, "The Crisis" was released for stock, and has been produced by repertoire companies throughout the United States times without number.

It was only natural, therefore, that "The Crisis" should eventually reach the picture screen—which is, after all, the most popular form of dramatic expression the American theater knows today. Arrangements were accordingly made with Winston Churchill by the Selig-Polyscope Company of Chicago. This company had already produced Rex Beach's two novels, "The Spoilers" and "The Ne'er Do-Well," with signal success. Colin Campbell, who had been responsible for the Beach pictures, was selected to direct "The Crisis;" and a large company of players was immediately engaged to proceed to St. Louis, Missouri, where the scenes of Winston Churchill's book are laid. In St. Louis, great care and attention was paid to historical detail. The actual locations described by Mr. Churchill in his novel were reproduced. Even Colonel Carvel's old home, Glencoe, in the suburbs of the Missouri city, was refurbished at a considerable cost of money, so that the atmosphere of the story might be transferred faithfully to the screen. The only other portions of the picture photographed outside of St. Louis were those representing the battle of Vicksburg. Camera men, actors and supernumeraries were transported to Vicksburg, Mississippi. Here they were joined by the entire National Guard of Mississippi which assumed the roles of Confederate and Union soldiers; and on the historic ground where the blue and grey struggled for supremacy, a half century ago, these National Guardsmen acted a mimic battle which is said to be an extraordinary presentation in every detail.

"The Crisis" has been produced in New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Minneapolis, St. Louis and Detroit with signal success. Indeed, critics in all these cities openly state that it is a far greater picture than "The Birth of a Nation" in every way; and certainly more accurate from a historical standpoint. The battle scenes, although realistic and wonderful, never for one moment intrude upon Churchill's charming romance between Virginia Carvel and Stephen Brice. The result is a unique combination of laughter, pathos, spectacle and drama.

The cast of players enacting the film version of "The Crisis" includes George Fawcett as Judge Silas Whipple, Matthew B. Snyder as Colonel Comyn Carvel, Bessie Eyton as Virginia Carvel, Thomas Santschi as Stephen Brice, Marshall Nelan as Clarence Colfax, Cecil Holland as General Sherman and Samuel Drane as Abraham Lincoln. Mr. Drane's performance as Lincoln has won the highest praise wherever it has been seen. He has made the Great Emancipator live again by a sincere, intelligent and sympathetic portrayal of all of the traits that have endeared Lincoln to millions of readers of American history.

"The Crisis" will be seen in the Colonial Theater three days Christmas week, December 25th, 26th, and 27th. —Advt.

STIRRING WORDS OF DR. LOWTHER AROUSE AUDIENCE

Dark Days Ahead for U. S. and Every Citizen Must Show His Loyalty, Declares the Speaker from War Department—Dr. Lowther Now in Hospital Suffering of Bronchitis.

Between 200 and 300 persons assembled at the High School Auditorium, Tuesday night, to hear Dr. Wirt Lowther, minister, of Logansport, Indiana who is giving his service gratis to the War Department, and who opened the eyes of all who heard him to the reality that the outlook is very dark in the world war, and that every man, woman and child are required right now to begin the hard, earnest work of winning the war and guaranteeing Liberty throughout the world. Chairman of the Red Cross Chapter, Thomas H. Craig, presided over the meeting.

Those who heard Dr. Lowther declared that his lecture or address was the best address on the war ever delivered in the city, and that it gave a more comprehensive insight into the struggle and what is required to win it, than all other speeches.

Dr. Lowther labored under difficulties, being very ill but determined not to disappoint his audience, and Wednesday morning he was taken to the Fayette hospital, suffering of inflammation of the bronchial tubes which, unless promptly and properly treated, might drift into pneumonia.

Dr. Lowther outlined the causes of the war and Germany's tyranny in bringing it about, and step by step traced the war and the barbarism inaugurated by the Germans, not forgetting to state that 200,000 Belgian women are mothers of children of unknown German parentage, and the numberless outrages committed against humanity in general. He spoke of America's unselfish part in the war for the preservation of Liberty, and the determination to put down the German efforts to win world dominion by force of arms.

He impressed upon each one the absolute necessity of their assistance in order that their homes shall not be dominated by German militarism.

Dr. Lowther declared that the big German offensive expected in the west may break the allied lines, and force them to give ground.

He asked everyone to remember that upon them and upon the rank and file of the citizens, in town and out of town, north, south and east and west, rests the winning or the losing of the war, and that now is the time to get busy and stay busy until the end of the war.

He asked that everything else be subordinated until the war is won, and for everyone to give as much time toward doing their bit as is required to do the work in hand.

Referring to the Red Cross he appealed to his auditors to not forget that it is the Red Cross that picks up the wounded and maimed men, and saves their lives, as well as taking care of the defenseless women and children who must depend upon someone for their very lives until they can be restored to something like home.

Everyone should be willing to respond without hesitation when they see an opportunity to help, was his declaration.

ANNUAL XMAS SALE OF RED CROSS SEALS

The annual Christmas Sale of Red Cross Seals in this city began Wednesday, when these bright little stamps which play such a part in helping to stamp out tuberculosis, were placed on sale at all of the city banks, at Tuttle's, Rodecker's and the Y. M. C. A.

At the Y. M. C. A. there is a lively contest in which Y. M. C. A. boys are entering to see who can sell the most seals and win a handsome knife now on display there. The knife will be presented Christmas eve.

The people of Washington are urged to respond as they always have by ready purchasing of these seals.

Sixteen of the Ohio soldiers have been sent back from training camps because of incipient tuberculosis and the havoc caused by the "great white plague" is two well known to need calling attention to the importance of stamping it out.

Every seal purchased is a step towards effective work in this great movement as well as a bit of gay color brightening the Christmas package.

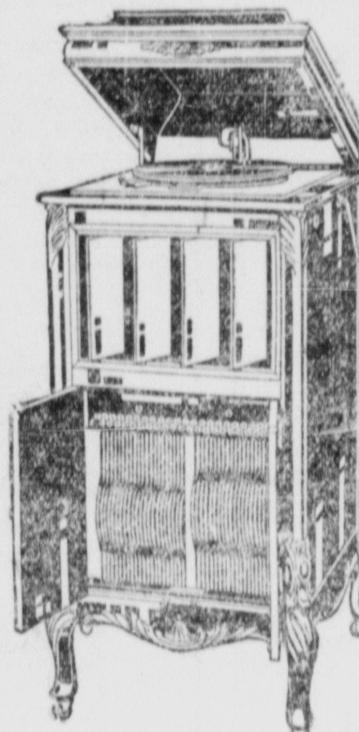

Mr. Harry Rodecker is chairman of the sale of seals and Mrs. Loren Sever Vice-Chairman.

DEATH CLAIMS J. L. BARNES

After two years of illness Mr. J. L. Barnes, well known resident of Milledgeville, passed away at his home at four o'clock Wednesday morning, aged 74 years.

For many years Mr. Barnes had been actively engaged in farming and interested in the various enterprises of Milledgeville, and his loss was keenly felt when ill health prevented further activities.

He was a Civil War veteran and the Grand Army of the Republic was one of his greatest interests.

Mr. Barnes is survived by a widow and nine children, Fleming of Columbus; Roscoe, Harley, Harry, Mrs. Pearl Spittler of Cincinnati; Mrs. John Cannon, near Jeffersonville; Mrs. Jerry Acton of Springfield; Miss Lillian of Columbus and Mrs. Clara Ferguson, at home and who, with Mrs. Barnes, gave devoted care during July 15th.

The suit is against Dr. Thomas Berry, and others, and alleges that the death is the result of the course of treatment the defendant gave him.

MUST NOT ATTACH KEROSENE BURNERS

By Associated Press Dispatch.
Columbus, O., December 19. — As the result of the fuel shortage through out Ohio, large numbers of attachments for heating-furnaces and stoves by which they can be made to burn coal oil, are being installed contrary to fire prevention laws, and a campaign to do away with them has been started by T. Alfred Fleming, state fire marshal. The chief complaint is that oil tanks of from five gallon to six hundred gallon capacity are being installed inside residences and business houses, a serious violation of the law, according to the fire marshal.

Word from Washington says the quartermaster general's department regards the wearing of Sam Browns as an English fad and believes it is to be disconcerted because it represents a waste of good leather, if for no other reason. It is assumed Gen. Glenn interprets the war department order to the contrary.

Asked for an explanation of the apparently contradictory orders, Hayne said there was no explanation except that the "facts are as stated." He said officers of the war department have witnessed review at camp, have seen the belts worn and have made no objection.

It is said Gen. Glenn's position is that privates and officers under him shall have the right to wear the belt uniforms possible, and make the best appearance possible. Officers, accordingly, are expected to dress up by wearing Sam Browns, which serve to hide ill-fits and shabbiness of uniforms.

Privates, likewise, are permitted to wear uniforms of a quality equal to officer's uniforms if they are willing to buy them themselves. They

The Automobile Situation!

In England and France the manufacture of automobiles has been stopped during the war.

Facts in our possession indicate that the automobile factories of the United States and the materials used in making cars will be needed for war purposes to an extent that will more than cut 1918 automobile production in half.

It is positively folly to think that things will go on as usual during the war. The whole resources of America must be used whenever required in prosecuting the war and automobile factories now are rapidly beginning to manufacture war supplies.

TRAVELING WITH LOCAL MEN ABROAD

Captain O. E. Hardway, of Company M, Graphically Describes Life of Fayette Troops Preparing for War.

A continuation of the interesting diary which Captain O. E. Hardway has written since leaving Camp Mills, has been received by Mrs. Hardway, and the first installment of the graphic story of the life of the soldiers from Fayette, now in France, is presented in the following, and the second installment will be printed Thursday.

The diary, which will be read with great deal of interest by everyone, follows:

Thursday, November 15.—Find that I have gained a day from some cause. Think it came about when I was keeping my record in pencil, and then switched to the typewriter. At any rate this is Thursday, and the other days are set back one day, so don't make much difference.

Thought that we could go ashore today but didn't. Have orders to de-bark tomorrow at noon, and have made all preparations to that effect. Lieutenant Bush came back this evening all muddy and said that the men were pretty well fagged out, by having to work hard, and didn't get very much to eat. They waited until 10:30 last night for a tug to bring them back to the ship and none appeared. They went to another vessel and stayed all night and got fed, and went back ashore to work. They returned to the ship this evening about 7:00 p.m. We expect to leave here for our new destination tomorrow evening, by rail from the port that we are now in. A Military train in this country, from what Bush says, is quite different from what we have in other parts of the world. Will try to write more about it when I have ridden on it. Men will ride in what we call ordinary box cars, some of them with benches, and some with straw in them. Will finish my tour of duty as O. D. tomorrow morning at 8:00 and devoted my entire time to disembarking.

Friday, November 16th—Up at 5 a.m. Bush and 13 men went ashore to sort out our baggage, rest of us cleaned up our compartments, and got our equipment up on deck preparatory to debarking, which we did at 1 p.m. By two p.m. we were ashore. Had charge of the tug that took us ashore, so was a seaman for a little while. Had a conversation with the first real French soldier that I had seen. He spoke English fairly well or I wouldn't have had the conversation. Started to R. R. Station but were ordered to return and wait at the wharf until further orders, none of which there seemed to be. The rest of our outfit had arrived by that time, and after a little waiting, all went to another part of the city to await the hour for entrainment. Had mess which consisted of canned baked beans, hardtack, and corned beef. By this time it was dark and we found that we had ten days' rations which had been issued to us and no truck to haul them to the station. We simply had to load the men up with all sorts of boxes and carry them a distance of a mile and a half to the station.

This of course caused some profanity, which you couldn't blame them for, considering it being dark and muddy. We were strung out for a mile when we got there, Bush brought up the rear. We had a French soldier for a guide. Part of the way was up a steep hill, which didn't help matters any. However, we managed to board the train sometime in advance of the time for pulling out for "Somewhere else in France."

A word about the trains. The coaches are not built like ours, but each coach is made up of compartments which you enter from the outside. A running board runs the full length of the coach on the outside just like our summer street cars back in the States, and you enter your compartment from this. There is no passageway from one compartment to another; you have to go outside to get to another compartment. However, there are a few of the fast trains that have an aisle running along on the side inside the car from which you can enter compartments. These are the best trains. The great majority of the trains are like the ones we were transported in. Some of the troops were hauled in box cars, which will accommodate 40 people. I guess that we were fortunate in securing regular passenger coaches for our men. I understand that officers generally have passenger coaches to ride in. The men were packed in like sardines with their equipment, as a compartment is supposed to hold just 8 men without much baggage. Few cars have toilets in them. Started for our station at 8:45, and it being dark didn't see anything until next morning.

Saturday, November 17th—Woke up next morning and found that we had gone farther than I had thought they would travel when I at first sized up our train.

France, I think, is a beautiful country, made up of what seems to me to be small farms, at least the fields are small through the part that we traveled today. Fields look like they run from one-half acre to 4 or 5 acres. Saw very few teams that worked abreast like we work horses, but are worked tandem style, sometimes as many as four of them, one in front of the other. Breaking plows are wooden beam and the front end runs on wheels. All I saw were of the very ordinary walking type, with handles to them. Country about the same all day, with villages every few miles. Passed through several large towns also. Would like to write the names of places, but censorship forbids that we write anything that might be of military value to anyone.

If you are going to buy a car we advise you not to wait until spring, but TO BUY IT NOW.

In line with the Nation-wide movement toward thrift and economy the Ford Car stands out in a class by itself. The first cost is small and the up-keep is very low. The Ford Car is truly a war-time car.

Our orders are being filled rapidly, because the freight tie-up prevents shipping cars from the Columbus Ford factory and we are close enough to drive them through.

YOUR ORDER SOLICITED.

AMONG WOMEN WAR WORKERS

Red Cross Injured by False Sweater Story.

The New York Evening Sun has been particularly active in proving the falseness of the stories which are in the line of German propaganda to injure the Red Cross. The following excerpts from that paper give considerable enlightenment concerning these stories:

"Another flood of falsehoods attacking the methods of the American Red Cross has been let loose throughout the country. The stories designed to undermine efforts to help American soldiers and sailors, accuse the Red Cross of flagrant improprieties in the distribution of sweaters provided for men in the service. There are many versions of the canard with varying details, but the three principal 'plots' evolve around the woman who found a Red Cross employee wearing the sweater she knitted for her son in France, the one whose Red Cross sweater was found on sale in a store and, thirdly, the alleged sale of sweaters by the Red Cross to soldiers and sailors.

In addition to denying the stories which were first spread all over the country last summer the Red Cross has taken steps to investigate the matter. Many of the workers are convinced that enemy propaganda is responsible for the canards as indicated by the sudden appearance of the falsehoods in remote sections. Once under way the stories travelled rapidly and many well meaning Americans have doubtless assisted the propaganda by unwitting repetition of the untruths. Frequently, the investigations showed, narratives have been embellished as they went along until a plausible version was built, but the inquiries by the Red Cross or others have always lost themselves in a haze of hearsay or have shown the reports to have come from irresponsible sources.

Some versions of the canards are on their face impossible to those familiar with Red Cross customs. For example, there are stories of identification of sweaters by coins or bills sewed in the pocket despite the fact that Red Cross sweaters do not have pockets. Furthermore the stories telling of the Red Cross' agreement to deliver knit goods to an individual couldn't very well be true in view of the general practice that articles must be distributed as the organization sees fit. If anyone has a sweater intended for an individual soldier or sailor that person is advised to mail it.

These points, entirely at variance with Red Cross customs, do not, however, prevent a wide circulation of the stories. One story told how a mother knitted a sweater for her boy overseas with a $5 gold piece secreted in the yarn. After giving the garment to the Red Cross for individual delivery, according to the story, the mother waited for an acknowledgement from her son. When none was received she visited the Red Cross again and there, so this version had it, found the sweater on a woman attendant who said she bought it from goods unavailable for shipment. Of course the narrative must include the discovery of the $5 gold piece as means of positive identification. Another popular variation of this story told of three $1 bills having been sewed under the left arm of the garment.

Doubtless every one by this time has heard the tale of the woman who knitted a sweater for the Red Cross, placed her name in the pocket, and a few days later received word from a department store that her sweater had been purchased with a number of others from a manufacturer," he continued.

"She is a curious person, this lady of the sweater. Never by any chance has she a name, and the speed at which she travels about is really remarkable. One day we hear of her in Houston, Texas, the next she is in Cleveland, and she was reported as being in Troy, Ontario, Louisville, Waverly, Norwich, and Utica. As she moved from place to place her handiwork increased from one sweater to half a dozen pairs of socks.

The 'Friend' Who Tells Tale. "Every one begins the story 'friend of mine,' but when one politely inquires the name of the friend there is always the reply: 'Well, she is not really a friend of mine, but one of my friends knows her.'

"One hates to spoil a perfectly good story, but truth will out. The Red Cross sweaters have no pockets. This disposes once for all of the 'lady of the sweater,' but that the rumor is widespread is quite evident by the number of letters and telegrams received daily at Red Cross headquarters.

"While these stories may be repeating more as idle gossip than any malicious intent, nevertheless each person who passes it along unconsciously displays an unfriendly spirit to an organization that is doing everything in its power to contribute to the welfare and comfort of men serving in the army and navy.

"The organization of the Red Cross supply service is so planned that incidents of this nature are absolutely impossible."

HANES BROTHERS ARE SOME CORN GROWERS

By Associated Press Dispatch. Arcanum, O., December 19.—Boys of the Hanes family of this little Darke county town are fast making history for themselves in a corn growing way, and bid fair to be contenders for some time in state corn growing contests.

Dewey Hanes, for series of years, almost had a monopoly on the state championship. He was ruled out this year because of the age limit. But, undaunted, Dewey got his two brothers to make a try for the title. They are Paul and Raleigh.

Paul Hanes actually produced more corn than any other boy in the state contest and Raleigh's efforts produced a trifle less. But Irvin Wasen of Vermilion, Erie county, was declared the champion because he obtained profit as well as production for his year's work. Wasen grew 148 bushels that sold for a profit of $122. Paul Hanes grew 150 bushels but netted a profit of only $101. So Paul was second. His brother Raleigh was third.

Paul Hanes' big expense was due to 11 loads of barnyard manure and some commercial fertilizer. Wasen eliminated this cost, as he did not need to re-fertilize his ground.

The organization of the Red Cross supply service is so planned that incidents of this nature are absolutely impossible."

HAS PERFECT RIGHT TO SWIPE JACKPOT

By Associated Press Dispatch. Loraine, O., December 19.—A man who has been framed in a poker game has a right to steal the pot. This was decided by Judge L. H. Job in criminal court this week when he discharged John Dechlecvic who was arrested on the charge of stealing $200. The testimony showed that the defendant was in a "frame poker game and that after he had lost heavily, he stole the pot.

"You are discharged," the court told the prisoner, "go steal again when they frame on you."

ROADS OPEN UP AND SHOPPERS POUR INTO CITY

Heavy Buying Indicated by Stacks of Packages, All Appearing Suspiciously Like Gift Things. Holiday Rush Is On.

The country roads, which have been tied up in a double knot by snow drifts, the past twelve days, have opened up so that the tide of humanity is able to pour into this city once more, all eager to obtain a liberal supply of Christmas goods, and the holiday rush is now on in real earnest with heavy buying the leading feature.

Stacks of Christmas articles are now rapidly melting away in the various stores of the city, and there is every indication that when the curtain falls on Christmas buying, next Monday evening, that the shops will be depleted of virtually all holiday goods.

Every train brings its host of shoppers, and the outgoing trains carry weary passengers who in turn carry heavy loads of Christmas goods.

Virtually every shop in the city is now crowded throughout the day, and this condition will continue throughout the remaining shopping days before Christmas.

While the country roads were blocked with snow the anxious would-be shoppers planned their purchases, so that when they step into a store they invariably know just what they want, or if they are in doubt as to the proper gift, a very short period of inspection decides them, and they soon complete their purchases.

Apparently the people are buying just as heavy as usual, but the trend is chiefly toward the more useful and better class of gift things.

SUGAR SHORTAGE GROWING SERIOUS

The sugar shortage in this city and county has reached its most serious stage to date, and one dealer estimated that in all stores in Fayette county, Tuesday evening, there was not total of 150 pounds of sugar on sale.

Many local dealers have been entirely out of sugar for several days, and those who have a very limited supply are apportioning it out at one pound to a family, at nine and ten cents per pound.

It has been nearly two weeks since the Dahl-Campbell Branch had a pound of sugar in their warehouses. They have had sugar enroute, but very little freight has come in, and the little that has arrived did not contain one car of sugar expected ten days ago. Two cars are now enroute, and are expected at any time, so that relief from the sugar famine is expected within a few days.

Now is the time for those who hoarded sugar many weeks ago, and have more than their rightful share to divide with their neighbors.

LISTEN TO SOLON HOME FROM FRANCE

Washington, Dec. 19.—The congressional inquiry into army war preparations broadened with the Senate military committee's decision to hear private manufacturers of ordnance and ammunition and to delve into the clothing, cantonment building, food and transportation situations Friday by examining Major General Sharpe, quartermaster general.

From Representative McCormick of Illinois, who recently visited the European battle front, the committee heard statements in executive session tending to contradict testimony of Major General Crozier, chief of ordnance, regarding adequacy of General Pershing's equipment, especially heavy artillery. Mr. McCormick said neither the British nor the French had enough artillery and that they were supplying Pershing only because the Americans were still worse off.

As a result of the charges of delays and shortages in the ordnance outfitting, the Senate, just before adjournment for the holidays, indefinitely postponed action on the nomination of General Crozier for reappointment. The nomination was brought up by Chairman Chamberlain of the military committee, which had unanimously recommended his confirmation. Several senators, including committee members, objected to immediate action, sharply criticizing General Crozier, and Senator Chamberlain agreed that it was advisable to postpone action until the results of the investigation were fixed.

HARD WORK AHEAD OF ATTORNEYS WHO AID REGISTRANTS

Registrants are now beginning to flock to the court house to have their questionnaires filled out, and the members of the Fayette County Bar Association, who are delegated to assist in doing the work, are responding to the call and doing their patriotic service for their country.

The registrants are oftentimes accompanied by wife, children, father or mother, or other relatives, and in some instances registrants must wait quite a little while for their turn at the desk with the attorneys.

Virtually all court operations have been suspended so that all attorneys may devote their time, in turn, to assisting the registrants in the Herculean task of filling out the 16 page is about all that one attorney can fill out in a single day, and as there will be some 1400 of the questionnaires to fill out, it will be a genuine task for all attorneys before the work is completed.

Most of the men have no difficulty in giving the information sought in the questionnaires, but owing to the length of the questionnaires it requires quite a while to fill out the complete document.

In the meanwhile questionnaires are being mailed out at the rate of 75 per day, and registrants must appear promptly within 7 days from the time the questionnaires are mailed out, and have them filled out and in the hands of the local board.

SWITZERLAND TAKES MORE STEPS TO INSURE NEUTRALITY

(Associated Press Correspondence)

Berne, November 25.—Switzerland finally has taken initial steps to control the undesirable foreign element from which she has suffered as no other neutral country since August, 1914. New regulations adopted by the Federal Council are intended to make it difficult for the agent of one of the warring countries, for the deserter from any side, for the foreigner without obvious, legitimate means of livelihood and occupation to flock, as heretofore, into the little country that is trying desperately to maintain an upright neutrality and at the same time weather the storm until peace arrives.

Switzerland has hitherto permitted without any material objection, scores of thousands of strangers to enter almost as freely as in peace times. Now action has been taken to stop this only because her hospitality has been grossly violated, her neutrality at times even threatened.

The new rules which will become effective as soon as the Swiss diplomatic and consular officials throughout the world can be notified, require that all foreigners entering the country must be equipped with iron-clad passports from their own countries, or equivalent papers of identification; that prior to coming to Switzerland all foreigners must furnish to Swiss diplomatic or consular officials adequate reasons for wanting to come here, and that, after arrival, strangers must register with the police of the city or town they intend to inhabit.

There has always been a daily traffic between France and Switzerland in the neighborhood of Geneva and between Germany and Switzerland near Basel on the part of laborers and others. Many undesirable foreigners have smuggled themselves across the border and have failed to return. Once in Switzerland they have been able to hide because of the lack of control over foreigners.

That all is to be changed. Every person crossing the border at other than the ordinary points where iron-clad passports will be required will be numbered. If he fails to return the police will be put upon his trail. He will have little chance of escaping, for without the right kind of credentials he is unable to obtain bread. A bread card today is more important even than the money with which to pur-

HARTMAN THEATER

(Columbus, O.)

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, December 25, 26, 27. Matinees Tuesday and Wednesday.

"CHEATING CHEATERS."

The Christmas attraction at the Hartman Theater, Columbus, will be that great drama, "Cheating Cheaters." After a phenomenal run at the Eltinge Theater, New York, this remarkable farce melodrama of Max Marcin is now sent on tour by the producer, A. H. Woods.

The advent of "Cheating Cheaters" ought to be a particularly happy one because of the unusual nature of the play, and because of its conspicuous metropolitan success in a season when the New York public was slow in giving its endorsement to theatrical offerings. "Cheating Cheaters" is an original combination of the brightest farce and the most absorbing melodrama, together with a strong romantic appeal that ought make it popular with every class of theater goers.

The play is superbly mounted and brilliantly cast, the company including such Broadway favorites as Kathleen Nesbitt, Edward Ellis, Edward Durand, Frank Monroe, Ann Sutherland, Gypsy O'Brien, Winifred Harris, James Marlowe, Martin Alsop, Arthur Barry and others. Mail orders will be received now.

RUSSIAN TYPE IS MUCH IN DEMAND

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Cleveland, O., December 19.—War business and a dearth of Russian clerks is believed to be responsible for an unprecedented demand in this city for typewriters equipped with characters of the Russian language.

A prominent Cleveland typewriter exchange has, during the last few months, sold many typewriters that combine English and Russian characters. Formerly, this typewriter exchange sold few machines with Russian type. Now it has several inquiries a week.
